This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Preface.

This volume opens with a simple expression of the principles of the preceding books, and the plan of advancement is parallel with what has heretofore been presented. The Chromatic, Minor, and Rhythmic elements are further developed and explained. Three-part songs and exercises appear for the first time. The songs are selected from the best composers, and will be found to be strictly educational in character, the children having acquired in the study of the exercises sufficient ability to read them.

Some of the occasional songs are presented in three parts, thus lending variety and offering a study in part-music. If desirable, the occasional songs may be used in unison as before, or the lower grades may sing them in unison and the upper classes in three parts.

The authors extend their grateful acknowledgment to the following publishers and authors, for the use of copyrighted material: Houghton, Mifflin & Co. (for poem by F. D. Sherman, page 15, and poem by H. W. Longfellow, page 51); the Century Co. (for poem by Anna M. Pratt, page 36); and Charles Scribner's Sons.

Directions.

Chart Series E contains an explanation of the teaching of this volume; chart practice should, therefore, precede lessons from the book.

Vocal Drill.

A preliminary exercise for vocal drill, like the above, appears with each lesson. The object of these exercises is to promote clear and rapid enunciation, to purify the tone, to train the ear, and to cultivate a sense of rhythm. These exercises should occupy a few minutes at the opening of the lesson. They should be sung slowly and carefully till the voices blend perfectly, then the tempo should be increased as much as possible. The vowel sounds, a, e, i, o, u, oo, and loo and la, should be employed. As the work advances, the previous vocal drills may be sung from memory. The benefit derived from these exercises will depend upon the ease, smoothness, and rapidity with which they are taken.

In all singing exercises, the tone should be soft, flexible, and entirely free from harsh, nasal sounds. The movement should be free, with marked but not excessive accents. The exercise should be spirited but short. The position of the body should be erect, natural, and easy.

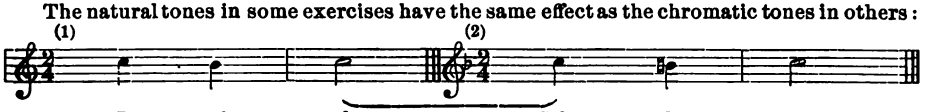
♯ SHARP. ♭ FLAT. ♮ NATURAL.

NOTE. A sharp, flat, or natural placed before a note, as in Exercises 105, 108, 109, etc., is called an accidental, and the tone indicated is called a chromatic tone.

The natural tones in some exercises have the same effect as the chromatic tones in others:

(1) (2)



Do si do. Sol fi sol.

Do si do in No. 1 sounds like sol fi sol in No. 2. As we are familiar with do si do, we easily learn sol fi sol by comparison.

By similar comparisons the effect of all the chromatic tones used in this book is shown. The pupils should first become perfectly familiar with the effect as expressed in the first example, by singing it with the given syllables and then with loo. Having done this, they sing the second example with loo, and finally apply the given syllables, getting thus first the effect to the ear, second the representation to the eye, and finally the name.

NOTE. Children are sometimes unable to hold their parts in three-part music, and the result is very unpleasant. These simple exercises should be practiced until the harmony is perfectly clear. In selecting the voices for the different parts the teacher should be governed at first by the ability of the pupils to hold the lower parts rather than by the quality of the voice. Place the poor readers in the upper part, the best in the middle, and the good in the lowest. As soon as the children become accustomed to part-singing, parts may be assigned with reference to the quality of the voice.

This exercise will serve to teach the pupils to sing four tones to a beat. Sing the exercise slowly, by rote, without any beating whatever. Then sing in like manner with an accent upon the first and fifth tones; this accent will immediately establish the groups of four; then sing again and beat with the accent; then the tempo may be increased gradually. Variations of this meter should be practiced from the chart.

When we sing the ascending scale, (see page 30) we think of each tone as higher than the one before it, and when we sing the descending scale we think of each tone as lower than the one before it. This difference in tones, which we describe by the words high and low, we call pitch.

We say the tones at the top of the scale have a higher pitch than those at the bottom.

* The natural removes the effect of the sharp or flat. Here the staff degree on which fa comes has been affected by a flat in the key signature. The natural removes the effect of the flat, and the tone is raised from fa to fi.

When a natural is applied to a staff degree which is affected by a flat, the natural indicates a higher pitch.

PATRIOTIC AND DEVOTIONAL SONGS.

No. 72. March of the Men of Harlech.

Words by WILLIAM DUTHIE. Welsh National Song.

1. Men of Har-lech! In the hol-low, Do ye hear, like rush-ing bil-low,
2. Rock-y steeps and pass-es nar-row Flash with spear and flight of ar-row;
Wave on wave that surg-ing fol-low Bat-tle's dis-tant sound?
Who would think of death or sor-row? Death is glo-ry now!
'T is the tramp of Sax-on foe-men, Sax-on spear-men, Sax-on bow-men.
Hurl the reel-ing horseman o-ver, Let the earth dead foe-men cov-er!
Be they knights, or hinds, or yeo-men, They shall bite the ground!
Fate of friend, of wife, of lov-er, Trem-bles on a blow!
Loose the folds a-sun-der, Flag we con-quer un-der! The pla-cid sky now Strands of life are riv-en; Blow for blow is giv-en, In dead-ly lock, or bright on high Shall launch its bolts in thun-der! On-ward! 't is our bat-tle shock, And mer-cy shrieks to heav-en! Men of Har-lech coun-try needs us, He is brav-est, he who leads us!
young or hoar-y, Would you win a name in sto-ry!
Hon-or's self now proud-ly heads us! Free-dom, God, and Right!
Strike for home, for life, for glo-ry! Free-dom, God, and Right!

THE NATURAL COURSE IN MUSIC

By

Frederic H. Ripley and Thomas Tapper

The Natural Course in Music consists of a carefully prepared series of Music Books and Charts, reasonable in price, and designed to cover the whole graded course in Primary and Grammar Schools. The plan contemplates the constant use of charts at first independent of the books and afterwards as a systematic preparation for the lessons to be learned from day to day in the Music Readers.

The Charts and the Readers are very closely related to each other. Their interdependence and correlation will be seen from the following outline:

1st year in Music—Chart Series A.
2d year in Music—Chart Series B..Music Primer, Part I.
3d year in Music—Chart Series C..Music Primer, Part II.
4th year in Music—Chart Series D..Music Reader, No. 1.
5th year in Music—Chart Series E..Music Reader, No. 2.
6th year in Music—Chart Series F..Music Reader, No. 3.
7th year in Music—Chart Series G..Music Reader, No. 4.
8th year in Music—Chart Series G..Music Reader, No. 5.
For Higher Grades and Classes.....Advanced Music Reader.

A Short Course in Music, consisting of Two Books, is published as follows:

Book I. . . For Elementary Grades.
Book II. . . For Advanced Grades.
